

Custom Wig Design

At October Glory, our Custom Wig service is more than just a wig purchase — it's a fully personalized process where every detail, from the hair itself to the final cut and style, is designed around you. This is our premier offering, built for clients who want a unit that looks completely natural, fits flawlessly, and is constructed specifically to their vision from the ground up.

The Consultation

Every custom wig begins with a one-on-one consultation. During this appointment, we sit down together and talk through exactly what you're envisioning, including:

- Length — how long you want your finished unit to be
- Color — the exact shade, or combination of shades, you're picturing
- Cut — the shape and style of the finished look
- Texture — matching the hair's texture to the look you want and to your own natural hair, so the unit blends seamlessly

Once we've nailed down your vision, we take precise head measurements to ensure your wig is constructed to fit your head specifically — not a generic size. From there, we provide you with a price for your custom unit, and a 50% deposit secures your order and moves you into the construction process. Once your wig is fully constructed to your exact specifications, you'll be booked for your install day.

Install Day

On install day, your wig arrives already constructed to your specified length, color, and texture — but the customization doesn't stop there. While the unit is applied and installed on your head, we perform the final cut, style, and any additional customization needed to make sure the wig fits and moves like it's truly your own hair. This step is what elevates a custom wig from "a wig" to a unit that looks completely natural on you, specifically.

Before you leave, you'll also receive a quick tutorial covering everything you need to know to care for your new unit, including:

- How to put it on and take it off
- How to store it properly between wears
- How to wash it
- How to style and maintain it at home

The Hair We Use

Our custom wigs are sourced from Southeast Asia, and we predominantly use Cambodian and Filipino hair. We chose these hair types specifically because of their low luster, thick density, and the way they closely resemble the natural texture of our clients' hair — giving the finished unit a realistic, seamless look rather than an overly shiny or synthetic appearance. Because every client's natural hair texture and density is different, we customize the hair selection for each unit, matching it thoughtfully to give you the most natural-looking result possible.

When it comes to color, we use a premium, luxury hair color brand formulated with added oils and lipids. This means the coloring process doesn't strip or dry out the hair the way many standard color treatments do — instead, the hair stays moisturized, healthy, and soft, even after a full custom color transformation.

Built to Last

With proper care and maintenance, a custom wig from October Glory can last up to two years. That kind of longevity comes from the quality of the hair we source, the premium products used throughout the coloring and construction process, and consistent maintenance care (see our separate Wig Maintenance packages for ongoing upkeep).

Why Clients Choose a Custom Wig

There are countless reasons clients invest in a custom unit, including:

- Giving natural hair a break — allowing hair to rest, recover, and grow out without daily manipulation
- Trying a new look — a fresh style or cut without committing to cutting your natural hair
- Testing a color — experimenting with a color you've always wanted without applying anything to your natural hair
- Medical reasons — many clients facing hair loss from conditions like alopecia or hair loss related to cancer treatment choose a custom wig replicated to match their natural hair, helping them feel like themselves again

Whatever the reason, a custom wig gives you the freedom to change your look, protect your natural hair, or restore your confidence — all without compromise.

The Ultimate Protective Style

We consider our custom wigs the ultimate protective style. There's no glue required for application. Instead, each wig is constructed with a drawstring along the back, allowing for a secure, seamless, flush fit against your head — with no added height or width, so the unit sits naturally and looks completely real.

You can wear your custom wig two ways:

- Behind the hairline, leaving a small amount of your natural hairline exposed for an even more natural, blended look
- In front of the hairline, concealing all of your natural hair completely for a full protective style

Because there's no technical installation or application process involved, our custom wigs are also incredibly beginner-friendly. If you've never worn a wig before, this is the easiest possible entry point — you simply slip it on like a hat and take it off like a beanie, no glue, no gel, no complicated technique required.

Versatile for Any Look

Custom wigs from October Glory can be styled anywhere from glamorous and full-out to simple, low-maintenance, everyday wear. Whether you want a unit for special occasions or something you can wear comfortably and confidently every single day, your custom design is built entirely around how you actually plan to live in it.

Who This Service Is For

This service is for anyone ready to invest in a wig that's truly their own — designed to their exact specifications, matched to their natural texture, and built to last. Whether you're growing out your natural hair, exploring a new color or cut, navigating hair loss, or simply want a beautifully crafted, natural-looking protective style, our Custom Wig service is designed to give you a unit you'll love wearing for years to come.
